American Affairs at the Sandwich Islands .--The American residents at the Sandwich Islands have addressed a memorial to the President of the United States, relative to their gravances. The memorial, after stating that on their part the memorialits have conducted themselves as good citizens, acting in conformily to the laws of the country, states that their rights have not been respected, while privileges granted to other foreigners have been denied to them: that for nearly two years past, the government has been usurped by uned obscure and unintelligible, and the courts ing the Rive mountains, the Grande Ronde, visited says; "In order to secure customers they and juries mere tools in the bands of these men. Americans have been threatened with confiscation if they did not swear allegiance commercial and manufacturing houses which he Grande Ronde, and all that district from Burnt river to the confiscation if they did not swear allegiance commercial and manufacturing houses which he days, averaging something near 5,000 barrels per Hathawa visited says: "In order to secure customers they advertised freely, which is all essential, if a merchant or business man wishes to be successful. For instance, one of these cluthing stance, one of these cluthing stances are stanced as a stance of the st to the King of the Islands; merchants, for not patronizing the government newspaper, have also been threatened severely; and American business have been cramped and embarrassed. The American agent, and also the commissioners, have been grossly insulted, and American property is without protection. The memorialists acquit the native rulers of blame, and charge foreigners as the cause. They state that Americans are most numerous of the foreigners there, and yet are without protection; while the British have always a ship of war on the station to protect their few sub- following article, which we lately scissored jects; they, therefore, request similar protec-
